

Margaret Cantwell

A Hero of the Faith

My name is Margaret Cantwell.

This is my story.

I was born in Picton, Ontario on January 25, 1912, but that isn't the interesting part of the story.

I was appointed as a Missionary teacher to Kenya in 1950.

I flew to Kenya on December 29, 1950,
arriving January 3, 1951.

I retired after 30 years of ministry in June of 1980.

I became the Principal of the School when the old Principal went on a leave.

I poured out the Holy Spirit on students and teachers in my workplace, many issues were resolved, and teachers were changed.

I then stopped work and returned to Canada to reside in a nursing home in Toronto.

One day a man named Simon Peter Emiau came to visit me.

This is Simon Peter now.

As we talked, I came to realize that this man was one of my students from 30 years ago.

He told me of how he remembered coming to my class....
This was his story.....

Simon Peter would always come to class wearing rags.

One day I decided that this was unacceptable for a child, it wasn't right.

I gave him clothes and shoes to wear.

He told me that he was touched by this act of kindness.

Kindness
(Show it)

When I asked him what he was doing now he told me that he was the General Superintendent for the Pentecostal Assemblies of God in Uganda.

God took a small boy from Uganda and created his life in rags into a life of missions and destiny.

What could God do with you?

Will you let him?
